

Communication is a Vital Part of Healthcare

Patients who can't effectively communicate have 3x more adverse events and lower satisfaction scores.

&

The Joint Commission: Patients with impaired communication have the right to assistive technologies and effective communication is an essential component of quality care and patient safety.

However

Communication difficulty is the most commonly reported distressing symptom for ICU patients receiving mechanical ventilation.

&

Consequences of ineffective communication causes up to 10% of NIV Failures.

Introducing the SPEAX
